Indirect Questions Are Worded Like Statements not Questions. When the direct question starts with a question word like how, what, when, where, which, who, whose, or why (called interrogative pronouns or interrogative adjectives), the indirect question will start with the question word, but the word order is like a statement not like a question. I'm asking what the time is.

In indirect questions, we don't use the auxiliary verbs do/does/did. Also, you can see that the verb is "open" in the direct question, and "opens" in the indirect question. Direct: Why did you move to Europe? Indirect: I was wondering why you moved to Europe. Again, there is no auxiliary verb did in the indirect question. In fact, this indirect question isn't even a question – it's more of a statement that invites the other person to give more information.
